Designed by A-1 THE GAME GIRLS Dev Team Story: The near future where the labor force replaced the robots. They work with insomnia due to the power of electricity. There was an accident or a disaster at one time, a power outage occurred in the factory. If you have electricity you can do whatever you want, but without electricity just a piece of iron. The remaining electricity is only the battery built into robots. With restriction that only 5 steps can be moved, we will head for recovery of electricity. What kind of game? It is a puzzle game that manipulates robots that can move only 5 steps and leads them to the goal. Also, every time I take actions such as lifting or lowering besides walking Because we consume one step of electricity, we must think and act actively. At the time of clearing, "the number of robots started", "the number of robots in operation" and "the number of remaining batteries" If you exceed the quota you can earn the medal of the star. You can move a robot on a robot, divide a stacked robot tower, Let's light the factory while making batteries. [X] Drag and place robot [C] Cancel operation [ ] Switch robot [↑]: Raise and lower the robot [↓]: Raise and lower robot [ ], [ ]: Switch robot [#] Decide the target robot's direction ロボットを動かして I made the game "GOHOROBO" with a mouse and a Bluetooth. In the app, there is a picture of a robot and a picture of a mouse. You can not reach the goal if you do not drag the picture. When you drag the picture, the mouse of the app moves. Comments from GOHOROBO Downloader website Many people download "GohoroBO" but have never seen it. The reason is because we are a company that publishes game apps based on human interest. I can do what I want as a story about "robot" and "mouse", but in reality when I published it, the general public could not find any interest in it. Because I like the producer of "GOHOROBO" app, I did an exchange of ideas. I made the "GOHOROBO" app as a hit and tried to make it as popular as possible. Through that, I got used to doing games that make people popular. So, I developed an application that makes me popular. I realized that if I developed the application, I did not want to do anything. I realized the existence of a world that could not be realized with "GOHOROBO" already exists. "GoHOROBO's" success is "GOHOROBO" success. I am only the robot that moved. With the success of "GOHOROBO", I became addicted to that game, and also naturally fell in love. It is not as if I do not realize that I want to do something in the future. I think to myself, "That is cheating on GoHOROBO". It is just that, although it is difficult to stand out in an era of applications like "GOHOROBO", I think that "GoHOROBO" gives me a reason to stay alive. Comments from Playstore "I love your GoHoroBO" ""I love your GoHoroBO"

What's new in GOHOROBO:

: Gillum says he supports “robust” discussion on guns Grisly images of gun violence scrolled across the big screen at the Gillum-Brune campaign forum Tuesday. Photos of gunshot victims flashed across the screen from recent mass shootings in the nation. The images were jarring reminders to the huge crowd at South Lake Union church that Florida, and not Tallahassee, will determine who will become Florida’s new governor. U.S. Sen. Marco Rubio was the event’s biggest draw, though some political observers speculated that he didn’t really want the spotlight. His visit instead was a public relations stunt to boost his standing among gun rights supporters. In his only speech before the crowd at Summit Church in Seattle, Rubio — who’s running against Tallahassee Mayor Andrew Gillum in a surprisingly tight race for the Democratic nomination — touted the political incorrectness of endorsing Hillary Clinton over Donald Trump and said there’s a “real race for the gun lobby in Florida.” “I am going to end the stranglehold of Washington on how we manage our own schools. Real safety, real safety starts at home and involves parents, teachers and children,” Rubio said. “The NRA has declared war on our schools. They do not respect parental authority, and they do not respect teachers and they do not respect our children. And what the NRA has accomplished is they’ve created a combustible combination.” And that’s true. But Rubio has ignited a firestorm among his Democratic Party peers and pro-gun control constituents in the fight for the 2016 presidential election in 2016. He and Rubio are gun control stalwarts. They are staunch and vocal Second Amendment rights supporters. They are also competitors in a tough Democratic primary for the nomination. And they’ve had it with each other. The tension between the two was on full display earlier this year when about 40 students from the mental health center at Families in North Florida, where Gillum volunteers, held up “Blank Check” banners. It was a reference to the NRA’s new campaign “Stand With the Second.” Some of the student activists were in Gillum’s photograph. “What he did was he took a picture with us and sent it to his staff in Washington, to a bunch of his people in
