Q: Using values from a table to set an array I'm trying to take the contents of a table and save them to a multidimensional array. In the process, I have a form that is used to submit a value. I have the form calculate the array, and I have a select list that states what values need to go into the array. I'm having a hard time figuring out how to get the select list to calculate the array. I have an array to start with: [4,5,6,6] I have this html: Boeing 737-200 737-400 Boeing 767-200 767-300 And a form like this: And finally a bit of code:

$aircraft_array = array(); if(isset($_POST['submit_aircraft_detailed'])) { $aircraft = $_

Q: How to Get URL path of the particular aspx file in asp.net? I'm Creating a asp.net application in that i want to create a button on a parent page which will call the child page controller. The problem is i dont know the path of the child page and want to call it using url.

Example: My Parentpage is Home.aspx. On click of Add row button this aspx file will call a controller called AddCustomer.aspx. Here how will i get the path of AddCustomer.aspx page in code behind in my parent page? And here how i want to call AddCustomer.aspx from parent page? I will pass a param to

AddCustomer.aspx A: You can get the path to the parent page like this: `var path = Server.MapPath("~/myfolder/file.aspx");` You can use the querystring to pass the parameter like this: `path =`
